TROOPS SUPPRESS DISORDERS AT OHIO MINE FIFTY OTHERS HURT: GOVERNOR APPOINTS PROBING COMMITTEE

SOLDIERS RESPOND WHEN PICKETS BEAT MINER; ORDER MORE

Tense Situation Is Prevail; Strikers
Defy Troops

CADIZ, O., April 15.—Two truck loads of National Guard troops were dispatched to the Harmon Creek stripping mine, two miles north of Cadiz, on a report that picketing miners had beaten a shovel man working at the mine. The mine had been guarded by four Harrison County deputy sheriffs and was picketed by about 400 striking miners, National Guard headquarters was informed.

The attack was the first outbreak reported since troops arrived on the scene of yesterday's disorder.

A small town in the hill country of eastern Ohio was the bivouac for 356 troops who took up their positions to suppress further outbreaks in the strike-harassed Harrison County coal fields.

The troops, comprising a battalion of the 145th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, was ordered into the troubled area from Akron after one striker had been killed and thirty other rioters injured in a pitched battle at the Somers mine, near Adena.

Clad in khaki, the troops de-trained with a supply of ammunition last night and were billeted in the opera house, the Erhart Hotel and the Kaffee dance pavilion. One detachment was ordered out to the Somers mine while the rest of the troops were held in reserve here. Two hundred additional troops may augment their strength within a day or two.

Eighty-five men stationed at the Somers mine under Major Sam J. Cole of Akron were armed with machine guns and rifles, and were ordered to fire on invading strikers at the mine. Strikers, most of them from the Hocking Valley and from Jefferson County, lined the hills surrounding the mine, apparently awaiting an attempt to reopen the Goodyear mine.

Major Emil Marx, St. Marys, stationed in the coal fields for several weeks as an observer, informed Major Cole and Col. Wm. L. Marlin, commander of the troops, when they arrived early today that they faced an "ugly situation."

The ranks of the strikers swelled this morning. At an early hour, twenty-five automobiles filled with shouting miners passed the National Guard headquarters, crying out their defiance. Major Marx said the cars came from the Piquette Fork district, scene of frequent mine troubles.

The display of military strength was expected by Sheriff Maurice Wooster to preclude any further outbreaks. He reported the situation calm despite alarming reports that strike sympathizers resented the invasion and were determined to maintain vigilant picketing.

Telephone wires leading to the Somers mine were cut during the night and citizens of Harrisville, about a half-mile from the mine, reported demonstrators rode through the streets, firing into the air.

AKRON, O., April 15.—Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. today announced that it had closed its mine at Adena, pending establishment of safe working conditions for its miners who have been harassed by dissatisfied striking workmen of other mines.

VALIDITY OF CITY BONDS SUSTAINED

COLUMBUS, O., April 15.—Action of the U. S. Supreme Court in refusing to review the decision of the Ohio Supreme Court in the Allen County bond case, sustained the validity of millions of dollars of sewer and water bonds issued by various subdivisions throughout the state, according to a statement today by Attorney General Gilbert Bettman.

By holding the constitutionality of the Ohio law which authorizes a county or other improvement district to levy a general tax for district improvement purposes, the court was said to have protected investments of the State Industrial Commission, state teachers' retirement fund, and private owners of securities previously issued for such purposes.

HEADS AMUSEMENT GROUP
NEW YORK, April 15.—Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Co., has been elected president of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corp., one of the "big four" of the motion picture industry. It was announced today by David Sarnoff, president of Radio Corp. of America, which controls RKO.

DETECTIVE DIES

WILLIAM J. BURNS, VETERAN OPPONENT OF CRIME, IS DEAD

Sleuth Solved Many Mysteries During
Long Career

SARASOTA, Fla., April 15.—"The Los Angeles Times-McNamara bomb plot," detective methods solved coast-to-coast bomb outrages, counterfeiting plots, land swindles and election frauds, was dead today after a heart attack.

The 70-year-old man-tracker's death here last night ended a career rivaling the most noted of fiction—but never included fictional methods. It was a career that included solution of these cases:

The Los Angeles Times-McNamara bomb plot.
Ohio election tally sheet forgery of 1885.

The Philadelphia-Lancaster counterfeit plot.

Oregon-Washington-California land fraud cases of 1903.

San Francisco mint robbery with $30,000 loss.

Boss Abe Ruef's political ring in San Francisco.

Burns also figured in many other cases, the most sensational of which were the Leo Frank investigation in Georgia where he once was nearly lynched while gathering evidence to prove Frank innocent; the Teapot Dome investigation; the Herman Rosenthal murder in New York; the Atlantic City and Detroit municipal graft cases.

Until eight years ago, Burns was head of the bureau of investigation of the United States department of justice and had been in that position since 1922. Before that he was head of the William J. Burns Detective Association. At the peak of

Machine Gun Claims
Toll In Wisconsin
Shootings

MADISON, Ill., April 15.—A gang leader and two of his henchmen were shot to death by machine gunners here early today.

The body of Thomas E. (Tommy) Hayes, head of the Hayes gang, was found twenty feet from his wrecked automobile on a main street and later the bodies of his two henchmen, at first reported to have escaped unharmed from Hayes' automobile, were found in another car near Venice, Ill., a few miles away.

One of the men found near Venice was identified as William Gee, a police character and long an associate of Hayes. The third man was not immediately identified.

Police, in reconstructing the killing, said Hayes and his companions were apparently attempting to escape and as the killers opened fire, Hayes lost control of his big sedan. The automobile crashed through a fence and was wrecked.

Friendly Petition By Subsidiary Against Huge Company

CHICAGO, April 15.—A federal court order was awaited today to make effective the largest receivership American business has ever witnessed—that of the Middle West Utilities Co., Samuel Insull's $2,500,000,000 holding corporation.

The tremendous ramifications of the company which touch industry at virtually every important industrial center on the continent make the receivership perhaps the most important in the history of finance.

Strikingly enough the petition for receivership brought against the gigantic concern the floating debt of which aggregates $600,000,000 was made on an $8,000 bill. The action is friendly and was made by the Lincoln Printing Co., in which a large block of stock is held by Insull interests.

U. S. District Judge James H. Wilkerson, jurist who heard the trial of Al Capone, was to hear the petition.

Appointment of three receivers, one of them the white-haired Insull who built the spider-web chain properties which stretch from New England to the Pacific and across the border into Canada, was expected.

The action had long been anticipated as a means of conserving the depression-strunk assets of the holding concern which controls properties estimated at well over two and a half billion dollars in value.

Middle West Utilities itself is a $600,000,000 firm.

Insull, whose optimism the prospective receivership would not damp, hastened to assure investors that condition of the operating companies was excellent despite poor economic outlook and that only the investment concern was affected.

Revenues of the three largest operating companies, Commonwealth Edison Co., Peoples Gas, Light and Coke Co. and Public Service Co. of Northern Illinois have been maintained on a high level.

Difficulties of the Middle West utilities arise, as the receivership petition, pointed out, from re-financing. Similar action is expected for Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and Corporation Securities Co. of Chicago, investment trusts of the Insull interests and both large holders of Middle West and other Insull securities.

The receivership petition asserted the Middle West utilities had bank loans of $27,000,000 of which $24,000,000 are demand loans no longer protected by sufficient collateral. In addition, $10,000,000 of a $40,000,000 serial gold note issue comes due June 1. Middle West securities holders own 15,700,000 shares of common stock priced at 25 cents at yesterday's close and 607,000 shares of preferred stock.

UNEMPLOYED RIOTS
DISTURB AUCKLAND

AUCKLAND, N. Z., April 15.—Rioting by unemployed who looted stores and smashed hundreds of windows in Queen St., last night, was renewed tonight.

Mounted police and naval reinforcements repeatedly charged the crowds and cleared the streets. Groups re-formed elsewhere as soon as dispersed in one spot.

PRaises Press

HOPEWELL, N. J., April 15.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, expressing the appreciation Mrs. Lindbergh and himself felt for the press cooperation given them in the 45-day hunt for their kidnapped son, have issued this statement:

"Mrs. Lindbergh and I want to express our great appreciation to those members of the press who in many instances have given us their cooperation, often to their own disadvantage."

"It is still of utmost importance for us and our representatives to move about without being questioned or followed, and we are again requesting the complete co-operation of all members of the press to this end."

"Charles A. Lindbergh."

NEW OHIO STATE BUILDING WRECKED BY BLAST

At least six workmen met death and scores were injured when a mysterious blast ripped Ohio state's new $6,000,000 office building at Columbus with damage estimated at $2,000,000. These photos, snapped outside the building shortly after the explosion, show firemen and rescue workers, top, digging into the debris to find the dead and injured, and below, a close-up of some of the damage. Accumulation of sewer gas in the basement of the building is believed to have caused the disaster. Many were believed buried when tons of wreckage fell into the basement.

ATTACK UPON BRIDE IS MASSIE DEFENSE

Lieutenant Shaken By
Emotion As Murder
Trial Witness

HONOLULU, T. H., April 15.—Judge and jury waited in a sultry courtroom today for a white-faced, shuddering young navy officer to unmask the honor slayer of Hawaiian Joe Kahahawai.

Only this final drama of the tragedy of his life remained to be told by Lt. (JG) Thomas Hedges Maasie as he related the stirring events culminating in Kahahawai's death and the murder trial of Maasie, his society mother-in-law, Mrs. Grace Bell Fortescue, and two accomplices, Albert Green Jones and Edward John Lord.

Like a gentle father, Clarence Darrow stemmed the 26-year-old Kentuckian's rising emotions which neared the breaking point when he described the brutal attack on his blue-eyed bride by a gang of native hoodlums—of whom Kahahawai allegedly was one.

The brilliant Darrow announced insanity would be a defense plea, and Maasie added to his tale in a passionate outburst, "It had a strange effect on my mind."

The famous Ala Moana case, as the trial of five natives accused of attacking Mrs. Maasie was known, became the defense of the four Americans when Maasie was called as their first witness.

Florid-faced John Kelley, who had just concluded the prosecution's circumstantial evidence, interrupted Darrow's question with a warning that he would object to bringing in the Ala Moana case unless insanity was to be the defense.

Darrow's face was an enigma as he answered "insanity will figure in the case—that is, for the one who shot the pistol."

Mrs. Fortescue was on the verge of a collapse as she listened to the lieutenant reveal the mistreatment of her daughter. Both these central figures of the island tragedy were closely observed by Dr. Edward H. Williams and John Orison, psychiatrists brought from the mainland.

This is an aerial view of the new Ohio state office building at Columbus, wrecked by a blast in which six workmen are known dead and fifty injured. The building, erected at a cost of $6,000,000, was damaged to the extent of $2,000,000 by the explosion. Although the blast occurred in the basement, officials declare steel girders as high as the twelfth story, erected at a cost of $6,000,000, were twisted.

SECRECY IN LINDBERGH CASE HINTS ANOTHER CLIMAX NEAR

NEW YORK, April 15.—Secrecy thrown about every phase of activity to return the kidnapped son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh gave hint today of an approaching climax to the baffling crime which has held world interest since March 1.

John F. Condon, "Jafie" asked to be given rein in his efforts to recover the baby after he and Col. Lindbergh were double-crossed in the $50,000 ransom deal on April 2. Lindbergh likewise asked the co-operation of the press, insisting that it was of the utmost importance that he and his representatives be not followed or questioned.

These facts indicated the Lindbergh family still places the greatest hope in private negotiations, but police efforts to trace one of the $20 bank notes from the ransom fund was asked, apparently in a desperate plan of action to leave no stone unturned until the baby is found.

New York police undertook the almost impossible task of tracing the bank note that was among the 3,000 deposits made at the East River Savings Bank here on April 4 and 5. Col. Henry Breckinridge, legal advisor to Lindbergh, asked Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney to interview every one of the depositors in an effort to trace the bill.

Condon continued on his mysterious errands. On one of his trips in which he headed for Tuckahoe, he stopped and requested reporters not to follow him. He previously had revealed that he met one of the kidnapers' emissaries at that point, which prompted news men to place significance in his plea to be let alone.

NORFOLK, Va., April 15.—Two Norfolk negotiators for the return of the kidnapped son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, arrived here today from a four-day trip, announcing "we are continuing our work on the case."

The two men, John Hughes Curtis and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, returned in a large sedan bearing a New Jersey license plate.

Cause Of Explosion That Wrecks Handsome New Building Is Mystery; Gas, Dust Or Bombing Source Will Be Investigated

COLUMBUS, O., April 15.—A disastrous explosion which wrecked the new $5,000,000 state office building yesterday, killing seven and injuring fifty, was blamed today on bombs, gas or marble dust explosions as an official investigation started.

The investigating body was headed by Governor George White and Colonel Carmi Thompson, chairman of the state office building commission.

Thompson would not comment on possible causes of the blast. Other officials were inclined to the theory that it was due to a bombing resulting from labor troubles.

Governor White today appointed an investigating committee of four and announced an explosives expert from the Dupont Powder Company, Chicago, would assist in determining a cause.

The committee consists of K. H. Osborn, president of the Osborn Engineering Co., Cleveland; Lester Redding, of Mansfield, member of the state board of architects; State Fire Marshal F. G. Henry, and Donald Hoskins, Franklin County prosecutor.

The investigators will have power to subpoena witnesses. They will be aided by T. S. Brindle, state director of public works, and John P. Schooley, state architect.

The executive said a grand jury would be called at once to consider facts found by the committee if there was any evidence of criminality.

No odor of gas was apparent and no gas piping had been installed in the building, which was nearing completion. Marble dust, accumulated in the finishing of the stone work, would not have caused such a violent blast, in their opinion.

Three times during the construction of the building, strikes interfered. The state construction board had insisted on the use of union labor.

BOMB IS SUGGESTED
The possibility that a bomb caused the explosion was expressed by Fire Chief L. Nice and Frank Henry, chief state marshal, on the basis of a report from Assistant Fire Chief C. W. Osburn, Osburn said he detected a "sweet odor" when he first entered the shattered building and thought this odor might have been the fumes of nitroglycerine.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, telegraphed to T. J. Donnelly, secretary of the local labor federation urging union support for a thorough investigation.

IDENTIFIED DEAD
The identified dead were listed as Russell Neal, 35, electrician, W. Doken, 32, Detroit bronze worker, Edward Chesney, 33, William D. Ryder, superintendent of the Alabama Marble Co., Cullman, Ala., Frank Baker, Louisville, Ky., C. B. Carter, Nashville, Tenn., and William Stephenson, 32, carpenter. Nearly 125 men were at work at the time of the blast, with three government building inspectors. Eyewitnesses said the explosion was in the basement and that vast billows of smoke spread over the building immediately. Fire followed.

So violent was the blast that heavy slabs of marble were sent hurtling 300 feet. Bronze doors at the main entrance were torn from their fastenings. Steel window casings were wrenched from the walls. The damage to the building was estimated at $1,000,000 or more.

Both Henry and Nice discount the theory that the explosion was caused by natural gas, contending that a sufficient quantity of natural gas to cause such a terrific blast would have been noticed by some of the workmen.

However, Professor Dana Memorial of the metallurgy department at Ohio State University, contends that the explosion might have been caused by gas.

CAUSE IS SOUGHT
Erwin Rossbach, city building inspector, accompanied Demorest on a visit to the wrecked building. They are making a special investigation for the city at the request of Mayor Henry Worley.

Rossbach, according to the mayor, expressed the belief that the whole building will not have to be torn down and rebuilt as some had contended.

Charles Martin, architect of the building, said he believed the building could be repaired.

Martin added that he "hasn't the (Continued on Page Ten)

MIDDLETOWN, O., April 15.—Roy W. Scofield, 42, a native of Toledo, and until recently police secretary in that city, had been named police chief of Middletown today to succeed the late Otto Koelitz.

The appointment was of a probationary nature for ninety days, at the end of which time the appointment is to become permanent, if city commissioners are satisfied.

Scofield, a World War veteran, was in the Toledo force for seven years, retiring last January.

Mrs. Gral-Mott was found with her throat cut. Police said the murderer or murderers had searched her home for mission funds.

Police said they had no cause to suspect suicide. Mrs. Gral-Mott had run the mission alone for the past year.

STUTTERING COMEDIAN HIT ROAD TO SUCCESS THROUGH SLIP OF MEMORY

SERIOUS
Roscoe Ates

S-STUTTERING

By ROBERT J. RHODES
Central Press Correspondent

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 15—Roscoe Ates, blubbering, stammering, kinky-haired screen comedian, who knows what it is to be broke as well as what it is to be affluent, does not stutter when outside the studio gates.

And there is no better authority for that statement than Ates himself. Interviewed here, he told his unique story for the first time.

"I had a small part in vaudeville a few years ago," says Ates. "I went on the stage one night—just as I had done hundreds of times—but I forgot my lines. I had stuttered when I was a youngster. I began to stutter then—just to keep the audience attracted while I thought of my lines. My stammering went over with the ticket-buyers and others in the audience much better than if I had followed out my lines. I decided that if they wanted a stuttering comedian before them they could have him. I fed them lots of stuttering.

"The response of my foolishness through the remainder of the act was stimulating. I made a decision that night that my future would be based on stuttering, that peculiarity which so embarrassed me during my boyhood days."

Succeeding events moved in rapid fashion. Ates found himself in demand. He had hit a new tone in the world of producing laughs.

The screen moguls out Hollywood way reached out for him. They hung a couple of contracts before him. Ates, being as much the business man as the comedian, grabbed a nearby pen and signed one of them.

He became a hit. He smashed the gloom that harbored in the minds of many theatergoers and the producers realized the cash value of such a comedian. If an actor could cause folk to forget their woes, the dollars would roll into the box office, they knew.

"I stammered until I was 18," Ates says. "I was self-conscious because of it. It was a terrible handicap so I decided to overcome it. I thought I could never go through life successfully if I stuttered.

"Stuttering is not an affliction; it is a condition of the mind. I observed that stutterers who sing never rolled their words while singing. If they could sing all right, why couldn't they speak correctly, I thought."

Trains Himself
Then Ates began an intensive training that resulted in his breaking away completely from stammering.

"If one who stutters will only hesitate between words, he will not find any difficulty in speaking clearly," Ates advises. "I trained myself to speak slowly by pounding a desk with my hand. Each time that my hand would hit the desk I would utter just one word. I'd do this slowly for several moments and gradually I would increase the speed. Eventually, the words began to flow with speed from my throat. I did not garble them.

"Stutterers," he continues, "generally become balled up on the first word of each sentence and the only reason for it is because they are too anxious to put their thoughts into words. If they would take lots of time to get that first word spoken, the rest of the sentence would be spoken clearly and with ease."

Townsley
Chick Chat

The Wisconsin Department of Markets recently issued the following bulletin—"Reports available at this writing would indicate good prices for eggs next fall. The normal spring lay is not materializing as usual. The farmers are not only short of laying fowls, but rate of lay is below normal. Poultry-meat prices are drawing the layers off the farms in large numbers, stimulated by low egg prices. Chick demand is below the expectations of the most pessimistic outlooks. The shortage showing up in cold storage holdings of both poultry and eggs will react in better and profitable egg prices this fall. The heat of the summer will start this climb in fresh egg prices, which may be more rapid than the most optimistic ones look for. The farmer with his poultry house filled with well matured pullets, ready to go to work next September will be 'sitting pretty' as the saying goes."

There is still time to have your pullets ready to lay early next fall if you get your Thorogood chicks within the next few weeks. Better place your order now.

"We should remain loyal to the Eighteenth Amendment if for no other reason than to preserve the home and prevent the repetition of the sorrow and suffering and demoralizing conditions of the liquor addicts families and homes in pre-prohibition days," Dr. McChesney concluded.

Mrs. W. A. McCall conducted a devotional period and Mrs. Lawrence Manor was in charge of the program. Following Dr. McChesney's address Mrs. Harner served a salad course and was assisted by Mrs. Elton Haines and Mrs. William Haines.

"FOUR HUNDRED" FIGURES

Social Leaders of New York and Nation as Seen by Ethelda Bedford, Gazette Staff Writer

By ETHELDA BEDFORD

Author of "Dear Diary"

NEW YORK, April 15.—You often see her wandering about the paddocks at fashionable horse shows, for there is nothing Mrs. Rodman Wanamaker enjoys more than looking at thoroughbreds. She likes polo games, too—and wearing sports clothes.

A fair-complexioned brunette, tall and with a roundness of both face and figure, Mrs. Wanamaker wears clothes with an enviable nonchalance.

One of her friends remarked one day to me as we spied her at a horse show, when it was raining: "There's Alexandra Wanamaker. She looks smart even in a raincoat!"

Of the Drexel Clan
As the former Alexandra Van Rensselaer Devereaux, of the well-known Drexel clan, Mrs. Wanamaker enjoyed a brilliant time in Gotham society, as well as Philadelphia and Palm Beach.

Her grandmother was the late Mrs. Alexander Van Rensselaer, who was born a Drexel, you know, and who reigned for years as the "first lady" of snooty Quaker City society!

As a debutante her parties were always extremely well appointed and the guest lists included THE people.

She was known as one of the most fêted debutantes of Philadelphia, and certainly no Gotham hostess withheld any feature from a party in her honor which would lend to its enjoyment regardless of expense.

Probably it was a mutual interest in entertaining and being entertained which helped along her romance with "Roddy" Wanamaker.

When she, the daughter of Mrs. Radcliffe Chester, Jr., married the grandson of the late John Wanamaker, of department store fame, and the son of the late "Tom" Wanamaker, society on two continents was interested. It was the joining of two well-known and well-liked families.

Aviation Enthusiast
She has many other interests in common with her husband. They both like sports and aviation. He has won recognition in aviation circles.

The Wanamaker parties are known for their lavishness—throughout the east and also in Palm Beach.

At present they are residing on the Philadelphia "Main Line." Until recently they occupied the lovely house on Sutton place known as Chauncey Olcott's Lucky House.

Mrs. Wanamaker is the niece of John R. Fell, whose first wife now is Mrs. Ogden Livingston Mills (a "great lady") also Mrs. Kelsey Cassatt and Mrs. Gouverneur Cadwalader.

Society holds no more colorful figures than the "Roddy" Wanamakers... their comings and goings, their activities large or small are topics of interest throughout social circles, both of the old and young.

DEMOCRATS MUST AID CAMPAIGN FUND

Ways and means of raising $300, assigned as Greene County's quota for the presidential campaign "war chest" of the Democratic party, are under consideration by party leaders, according to H. A. Higgins, chairman of the local executive committee. Amounts to be contributed will probably be apportioned to each township. Thomas Dye, Urbana, former Democratic state chairman, recently conferred with local organization leaders on the subject.

NEW CITY STREET ORDINANCES PASS

Annual street sprinkling, cleaning and assessment ordinances, providing for a reduced scale of special assessment taxes that will lower the yearly cost to abutting property owners by $2,200, were passed on second readings by City Commission Thursday night. Herebefore the annual cost has been about $8,800, but city officials devised a plan to slash the assessments 25 per cent and save taxpayers one-fourth of the total sum they have previously been assessed.

GERMAN POLITICS

The election of President Paul von Hindenburg to another seven year term as head of the German Reich was, after the first vote in March, virtually a foregone conclusion. Consequently last Sunday's balloting was chiefly interesting in its revelation of the shift in political sentiment in Germany during the month that has elapsed since President von Hindenburg failed of a clear majority of all votes cast, by only about 179,000. Although he obtained a clear majority in Sunday's run off, a plurality was enough to have kept him in office.

Adolf Hitler and his National Socialist (Fascist) following claim a moral victory because they increased their popular vote by more than 2,000,000, while the Communist candidates lost 1,277,000 votes and Von Hindenburg gained only 712,300 more than he received in March. At that time there were five candidates in the running. Two of these did not stand for election in April. One of them, standard-bearer of the Nationalists, polled 2,500,000 votes in the preference election. The distribution of those votes in the run off, among the three surviving candidates, would account for the increase in the support given President von Hindenburg and more especially for that accorded Adolf Hitler.

The significance of this development cannot be disregarded in any attempt to read Germany's political future. Conservative Germany has again rallied to sustain the Grand Old Man, whose rugged honesty and courage it worshipped in war and idolizes in peace. A younger Germany, which apparently sees no merit in suffering for the "sins" of its fathers or paying for a war it did not fight, seems increasingly willing to risk having to endure some doubtful policies Hitler stands for in order to obtain the benefits it believes it sees as potential fruit of some of his other policies.

The Fascist movement in Germany is a revolt against the old order, which has sprung from a feeling that the present form of government is incapable of lifting the country out of the economic depression in which war's aftermath left it. The Fascists look to Italy and see the changes Signor Mussolini has wrought there. They believe that the same system of government would work equally well in Germany. They may be right in this and they may be wrong; but that they believe they are right, and are polling nearly 40 per cent of the German electorate, appears ominous to those who still have faith in the German Republic.

What will happen when the 84-year-old popular idol, who has just been re-elected president, passes from the scene, time will largely determine. To a considerable extent it will probably depend on the economic treatment other countries afford Germany and to the effect this has on Germany's internal economy. The Fascists, fundamentally, want the treaty of Versailles radically revised in order, as they hope, to relieve the political and economic pressure it puts their country. The promise of Adolf Hitler to bring such revision about, if he is put in charge, obviously will remain a strong talking point, as long as the conditions which elicit it endure. The interest taken in this country in events transpiring in Germany is admirable as long as it does not seek to influence events transpiring in this country.

KNOWING THE FUTURE

That, if no one knew the future, there would be reason for us to be anxious, is the statement made by Rev. Arthur J. Brown, president Emeritus of the Board of Foreign Relations.

Rev. Brown, who has been a pastor in many churches, is responsible for a number of publications, among them "The New Era in the Philippines," "The Chinese Revolution" and others.

One of his most recent articles contains much of interest. In it he says:

"The dignity of human life rests on our knowledge of the divine control of life, that the events of the world are in the hold of a strong hand, and that while we may not see the future, we know that there is one who knows the plan of life and our part in it.

"All our hopes and aspirations are inextricably involved with the future, and fear of the future has been the underlying cause of all the ancient and modern superstitions.

"Worry is only fear of the future. We wonder when the business depression will end, what future sufferings we will have to undergo.

We can look back over the past and see the pitfalls we have escaped and worry for fear our children will not escape them. We wonder whether the plans for the abolition of war will succeed, if corruption can be stamped out of our municipal life, what the result of the struggle between capital and labor will be."

"God shows us our present duty and enough of the plan of life for us to know what our next step should be. Beyond that we must take for our own the answer He gave Peter after the resurrection when Peter asked Him what the future would be: 'Follow thou Me.' It is better that we should not be able to foresee the future.

"Knowledge of future successes would unduly elate us, and knowledge of future failures would unduly depress us. Instead, we should bend our efforts in the highest endeavor and aspiration. Even if we do not realize our hopes, God judges us not by what we attain, but by what we honestly attempt.

"If no one knew the future there would be reason for us to be anxious. But there is One who knows, and we may leave it to Him in the full consciousness that His grace is sufficient in our adversity and that we shall not be tempted beyond our strength. Above the tumult and the din of the evils existing in the world we know that we are moving toward the goals of God, that the kingdoms of this world are moving toward the kingdoms of God."

PROVIDES OPTIMISM

This year again motorists of the United States are financing a program of road construction and maintenance that will give employment, directly and indirectly, to hundreds of thousands. This is the salient point in the announcement by the United States Bureau of Public Roads that the nation's highway program for 1932 will involve the expenditure of $1,353,000,000.

Apart from its meaning to the relief of unemployment, however, the announcement contains material from which a logical optimism may be derived. Comparatively speaking, this is a low year in road building. That means appropriations are being proportioned to actual revenue rather than artificially expanded as they were last year when they exceeded $1,500,000,000.

The shrinkage is due almost entirely to the decline in local-municipal and county-highway appropriations. State expenditures will be approximately the same as last year, since they are based upon gasoline tax and other motor revenues. The amount thus derived remains vast and virtually the same because the motor vehicle holds a constant place in the nation's transportation. The average man may not have bought new cars at the same rapid rate during the last two and one-half years that he did at the peak of prosperity. Automobile sales figures show that he has not done so. Yet motor vehicle tax revenues reflect the fact that he has continued to use his older car as much as ever. His dependence upon the motor vehicle has not lessened.

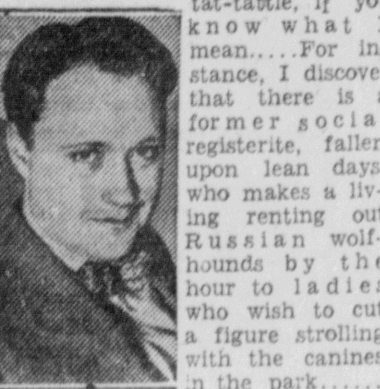

So, even in a quiet year, motordom remains a sufficiently vast realm of human activity that it can finance a $1,353,000,000 road-building and maintenance program.

MY NEW YORK

By JAMES ASWELL

NEW YORK.—The run of the town:

This is a day of glittering trivia, of hop, skip and jump, of rat-a-tat-tat, if you know what I mean.... For instance, I discover that there is a former social register, fallen upon lean days, who makes a living renting out Russian wolf-hounds by the hour to ladies who wish to cut a figure strolling with the canines in the park....

James Aswell

And I unearth the fact that salesmen for 'scorchy' books are now touring the office belts with an impudent racket.... They buy the books and pamphlets on sale openly in the drug stores and peddle them at three or four times the price as 'forbidden'—turning no risk, and thriving under the new liberality which the police appear to manifest toward book counters....

Again, I detect the manner in which the bluebirds have taken up the circus this year.... The lobby of Madison Square Garden has been so full of top-hats that it's a pity there were no snowballs furnished plebeian patrons....

Further, this gad-about has slunk into a place in Park avenue "La Tour Eiffel" by name, which yends the most astonishing 85c lunch ever eased into a platter.... Hors d'oeuvres, onion soup, fillet of sole, breast of guinea hen under glass, plum pudding and demitasse.... The "front man" is one Robert, former head waiter for the irrepressible Belle Livingstone.... He proudly showed me a letter from Belle, who is plotting a new and super-deluxe Manhattan salon—if you know, once more, what I mean....

YOU MUST AGREE—

That the most hilarious crime of the week was that which landed a visitor to the Central Park zoo in jail.... He tweaked an elephant's tail.... And you must concur that J. Harold Murray, the song chef and star of "Face the Music," is either a grand showman or living in a daze, because he fills the elevator shafts of the Park Central hotel with song as he rides up and down every day.... I rode with him and was amazed to learn he was cold sober and continues the habit.... Rehearsing new tunes....

Flicker stars see red at the phrase "film test" because they all have to take them, just like any aspirant, before the start of a new picture.... Taxi pilots have estimated to me that those new advertising gadgets, lighted signs which change every few seconds in the tonneau, cost them dough because they must have plenty of expert tinkering when they get out of order....

My current radio enthusiasm is Aileen Stanley, a lovely lady with whose soft, caressing melodies you are undoubtedly familiar.... She made a hit in my 15-minute radio-television niche the other Thursday with her new number "Little Side Door to Heaven," which Phil Baker wrote for her, an interlude in an interview.... Her records, she tells me, have topped the 25,000,000 mark.... And they talk about best-selling authors of books!

Correctly Speaking—

"Take" is a colloquialism when used for study. Say "I studied Spanish and chemistry." Not "I took Spanish and chemistry."

Today's Anniversary

Today's Horoscope

Persons born on this day are intellectual, intuitive and fond of music.

Answers to Forgoing Questions

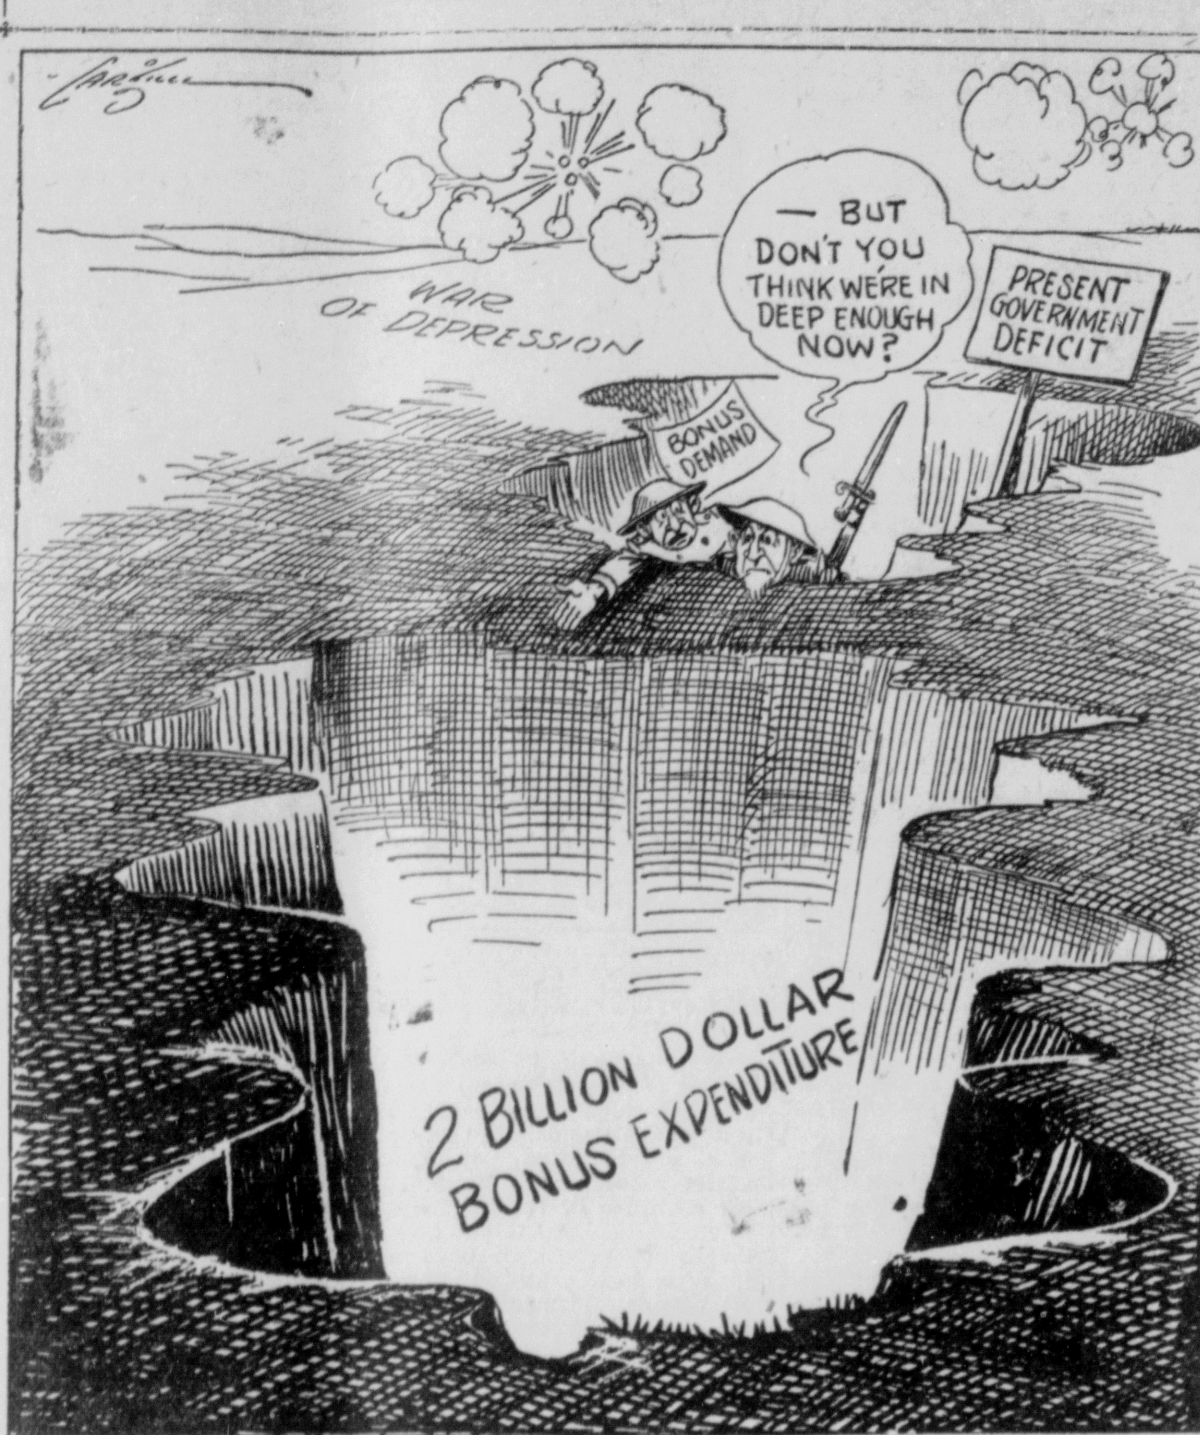

1. The eel does have scales embedded in its slimy skin.

2. Sponges are popularly regarded as a kind of sea plant, but in reality they are the skeletons of a low type of animal.

3. Sturgeon, tuna and sword fish which sometimes attain a weight of 1,000 pounds, probably are the largest fish caught for food.

THE BETTER 'OLE?

GIVING CREDIT WHERE CREDIT IS DUE— IN CHARACTER TEACHING

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education,
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

Some while ago I described in this column a type of school report card on conduct and character sent to parents of children in a certain elementary school of Madison, Wis. Soon I received the following letter from Mrs. Agnes Boyesen, principal of the Lyndale elementary school of Minneapolis. It is printed below, with Mrs. Boyesen's permission:

"My Dear Dr. Myers: The president of my P. T. A., Mr. Rorem, has just called my attention to your article under 'The Parent Problem.' The system which you described was inaugurated in the Lyndale school nine years ago. I know that many schools have adopted this system up to date, and I realize that it is not always possible to give credit to the Lyndale school.

"Some of the parents, however, have objected to the omission, as they immediately recognized the plan. Mr. and Mrs. Rorem are especially interested in you and your splendid work, and they are anxious for you to know about the plan which is in operation at the Lyndale.

"You probably will be interested in the history of this experiment, so I am enclosing a monograph which I recently wrote.... Credit always to whom credit is due. Failure to give credit to the Lyndale school was not the fault of the Madison principal who reported it, but my own. Indeed, I now have a hazy, vague memory that the Madison principal who was so kind as to describe the scheme upon my request, and which I incorporated in that article, referred to have adopted the plan from another school somewhere. I am sorry. The principles involved have, of course, been in the making, being applied through various methods in a number of places, for many years.

Mrs. Boyesen and the parents of her school certainly are to be commended in having pioneered in this fruitful field.

Since receiving Mrs. Boyesen's letter I had the rare opportunity of hearing her describe her program before a meeting of the school superintendents of the National Educational association, at Washington, D. C. When time for discussion came a city school superintendent of considerable eminence rose and reported his visit to the Lyndale school. "Everything she described is happening there," he said, "and I heartily commend the plan."

A letter has been received also from Joseph T. Palmer, principal of the Washington Junior High school of Mount Vernon, N. Y., enclosing a report card from this school. On it are listed five character traits—reliability, self-control, courtesy, cooperation, industry. Under each are descriptive statements. For example, under "Co-operation" appears, "Is punctual; works and plays well with others; recognizes leadership; respects the rights of others; is thoughtful in the use of school paper, pencils, etc.; respects public property; observes school and city regulations; is orderly and helpful to teacher and class."

Under "Self-Control" appears: "Tries to be master of himself; has a pride in not having to be continually watched; tries to see the difference between right and wrong, and seeing the right to do it; is clean in mind and speech; avoids improper talk; keeps his temper; is careful in the use of English, both in the classroom and on the playground; is thrifty."

I am always glad to answer questions of my readers. In case a personal reply is requested, please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Editor's Note: Two pamphlets by Dr. Myers may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Garry C. Myers, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Punishments and Rewards" and "Fear."

Mix one cup corn, one beaten egg, three tablespoons chopped green pepper, half teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper and cook until quite thick. Spread over the ham slice and serve on a hot platter, garnished with green pepper rings.

Escalloped Cabbage—Four tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, two and three-fourths cups milk, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, one-fourth teaspoon celery salt, three cups chopped, cooked cabbage, two-thirds cup cracker crumbs, three tablespoons butter melted.
Melt four tablespoons of butter and add flour. Blend and add milk and cook until creamy sauce forms. Add seasonings. Blend and add cabbage. ### FACTS AND FANCIES

April's Birthstone
She who from April dates her years
Diamonds should wear, lest bitter tears
For vain repentance flow. This stone
Emblem of innocence is known.
A rich heritage is said to come to those who may claim the diamond, king of gems, as their birthstone. For countless ages, this gem has been cherished as the emblem of innocence, of love and ideal happiness. The Hindus dedicated the diamond to the planet Venus, and the coveted influence of the goddess has been invoked by lovers in every age to our own day.

POEM

"SISTER, AWAKE!"
Sister, awake! close not your eyes!
The day her light discloses,
And the bright morning doth arise
Out of her bed of roses.

See the clear sun, the world's bright eye,
In at our window peeping:
Lo, how he blusheth to espy
Us idle wench asleep!

Therefore, awake! make haste, I say
And let us without staying,
All in our gowns of green so gay
Into the Park a-maying!

Milk Elixir Of Youth

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"When man made friends with the cow, the first steps in the science of human nutrition began." (Crumble & Tobey.)

Whatever the depression does to civilization there are certain things that man has accomplished, secrets wrung from nature, that future ages will not willingly let die. Many of these are so commonplace and familiar to us that we are likely to forget them in counting over the roster of our blessings. One such is milk.

The quality and quantity of the milk we use is a fairly recent development. As late as 1880 the American cattle were below the British standard and little interest was displayed by dairy farmers in making improvements. A mature cow weighed 700 to 900 pounds.

A London judge, Colquhoun, in the early part of the nineteenth century, made a survey of the milk supply of London. He found that there was a consumption of a tenth of a pint of milk a day per person, on the average. Today that has risen to a pint a day. On the authority of the police, Judge Colquhoun says that in those days every cow had a pump, that the milk was disgracefully watered and the sheds intolerably filthy.

Up to the end of the eighteenth century milk cattle were small, scraggy animals, giving a scanty supply of milk. It was one of the great neglected geniuses of the human race, Robert Bakewell, who produced by scientific breeding the first of the fine milk cattle of today.

Improvements in transportation, refrigeration, sanitary inspection, dairies, and concentration of milk have aided in making wholesome, clean, cheap milk available to all. For nutritive qualities milk is the complete and perfect food. Designed by nature for growing animals it contains all the nutritive qualities, nearly all the vitamins and minerals necessary for bodily health and development.

But it is valuable not only for children. Indeed, the cream of the elixir of life is realized in milk as much as in anything we know. The pastoral peoples of the world, "without exception," according to Dr. E. V. McCollum of Johns Hopkins university—those who have possession of many dairy animals and whose diet has consisted largely of the products of these animals—have always displayed the greatest physical prowess, the finest health and the longest span of life.

"The fountain of youth," according to a well known public health authority, "is filled with good clean milk."

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
Q. H.: "I am taking electric needle treatments for the removal of superfluous hair. Is zinc oxide ointment harmful to put on the places where the needle has been used?"

Answer: Usually it is not necessary to treat the skin in any way after the use of the electric needle. If irritation occurs, however, zinc oxide ointment is quite harmless and, in fact, beneficial.

S. P. N.: "Is olive oil a good hair food?"

Answers: In the sense that the hair utilizes oil rubbed into the scalp for nutrition of the hair, there is no such thing as a skin food. If the scalp is excessively dry, olive oil may be used beneficially, as may also castor oil—two parts mixed with alcohol one part.

Hubby Is Careless

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: We have a little home in the country, three sweet children. Hubby tries hard when out of a job, to get another and is willing to earn and provide for the family, but is very careless about the home. Just where he stops with hoe or hammer or anything like that is where he drops it.

"Same way about his clothes. I have to look after so many things that he could do if he wanted to or was not too careless. He is always ready to go. Sometimes I go along too, if I take care of the children and wait around the corner for him. I have done my share of staying at home, and sometimes that is less nerve straining.

When babies are small and husbands are careless it is always rather hard lines for a young mother like you, but, after all, haven't you everything a woman needs to make her happy? A "little home in the country," three adorable babies and a husband, who, with all his faults, tries hard to get work and provide for his family. I think if I were you I'd forget his trying ways or coax him by loving and laughing at him, to do better, and count myself a very rich and happy woman.

PUZZLED PAL has a boy friend who is a "perfect gentleman," but frequents a pool room which his girl pal evidently looks upon as a sink of iniquity.

My acquaintance with a pool room is limited. Puzzled Pal, but I wonder if they are as bad as you seem to think. The game of pool itself is harmless—very good sport, I understand. Why don't you get the boy friend to tell you what the attraction is? You can't get him to stay away by scolding. You might by refusing to go with him, but I doubt it.

Why not trust that even if he does go to places that you do not altogether approve, that he does nothing wrong? If he is as nice as you say, he probably merely enjoys the game, and can play it room.

What you have told about your husband, Tillie, might be said of 90 per cent of all the husbands in the land. They are mostly a careless lot, never knowing where they drop things, never able to find anything even if it is right under their eyes. After a man marries, wife takes the place of mother, picking up and locating his numerous possessions.

It used to be worse than this is now because women were supposed to wait on men. Now when women work side by side with men in business the latter don't always get the waiting on, and they are slowly but surely learning to do for themselves and even to help out at home.

In a way it's fair enough that we should wait on them somewhat. We demand that they wait on us and be very gallant—at least we like them to be, don't we?

When babies are small and husbands are careless it is always rather hard lines for a young mother like you, but, after all, haven't you everything a woman needs to make her happy? A "little home in the country," three adorable babies and a husband, who, with all his faults, tries hard to get work and provide for his family. I think if I were you I'd forget his trying ways or coax him by loving and laughing at him, to do better, and count myself a very rich and happy woman.

Skirts Are Shorter

By GLADYS GLAD

If you've been reading your fashion magazines you will have observed that a start has already been made in the return of short skirts. All of the leading Parisian couturiers are showing spring street frocks fully three inches shorter than those in vogue last spring. And this may be just a start. For next year shorter skirts for all occasions may be in favor. Nevertheless, one doesn't have to wait for next year to think about one's legs.

For the bathing suit days are not far in the future, and if you don't think that the new scannies that the gals are a' goin' to wear on the beaches are revealing, just look at any of the pictures of the advance styles.

Which means that if your nether extremities are anything but up to snuff you'd better do something about them. Heavy calves, ankles and knees are anything but attractive in a revealing bathing suit. And scrawny likeliness are just as unappealing. Which means that exercising is in order. The exercises contained in my article on "Care of the Feet and Legs" are also the following:

Stand erect, weight even on both feet, lift right foot from floor, letting foot hang loosely and relaxed from the ankle. Now shake the leg, gently at first, then increase to a vigorous movement, and repeat 10 times with both legs. This will literally "shake" the excess flesh off if practiced faithfully.

For development, the following is a favorite:
Sit in a chair, both feet on the floor.

Coils with contrasting sleeves of fabric or fur will be an important part of the new models for fall.

A dotted Swiss or voile dress will make you right in style this summer.

Standard Weight
Jane: I think that a girl 15 years old and 5 feet tall should weigh about 107 pounds.

Thighs and Buttocks
Hopeless: Exercise 1, 3, 4 and 5 for the lower part of the body described in that booklet will help to reduce your thighs and buttocks. Practice them vigorously every day.

Coils with contrasting sleeves of fabric or fur will be an important part of the new models for fall.

DRAMATIC STORY OF ATTACK UPON BRIDE IS MASSIE DEFENSE

land as defense experts. Haltingly, Massie told of a moonless night last September and the couple's decision to attend a dance at Waikiki Beach. The jury of seven Caucasians, three islanders and two Chinese leaned forward.

"When we were ready to leave for home I couldn't find Thalia," he said. His voice became hoarse. "I phoned home and she was there. 'Please come home, something terrible has happened,' she said. 'She collapsed in my arms at the door. Blood was streaming from her nose and mouth. Her lips were crushed and her eyes bruised.'"

Through the story of her abduction and mistreatment by the natives on Ala Moana Road Massie led the jury—how Mrs. Massie's jaw was operated on and how she almost choked to death. When she was in the hospital she identified four islanders as her assailants, he said.

Massie left no doubt he considered Kahahawai one of the guilty. "She prayed for mercy but Kahahawai struck her," he continued. "He laughed as he did it. She told me of it a thousand times, and would cry, 'why didn't they kill me?'"

The last blow to a tortured mind was the discovery of physicians that Mrs. Massie was to become a mother, Massie said. "It was worse than anything I could imagine," he cried, rising in his chair, almost shouting in his anguish. "It was the thing I had feared."

"It had a strange effect on my mind," Darrow hastily called him from the stand and court adjourned until today, when Massie was to finish his ordeal with the first recital of what actually occurred last January when Kahahawai met violent death.

WILLIAM J. BURNS, VETERAN OPPONENT OF CRIME, IS DEAD

his career his agency was classified as a "big business" with offices in every important city.

Burns' biggest coup was the solution of the Philadelphia-Lancaster counterfeiting case, said to be the biggest counterfeiting ring ever broken up by the government.

A year later Burns organized his own agency. While head of the agency, he was called in on the Los Angeles Times case, when the Times Building was dynamited and twenty-one people were killed. His work brought arrests and convictions.

Burns was born in Baltimore in October, 1861, but grew up in Columbus, Ohio, where his father owned a tailor shop. Later his father became commissioner of police there. It was then that young "Billy" became interested in ferreting out crime.

His first detective work was in 1885, when 24 years old. The case was known as the "tally sheet forgery" connected with Ohio elections in which tally sheets in Cincinnati and Columbus were altered. He assisted in running down the guilty persons and obtaining a confession.

In 1890 he was appointed to the United States Secret Service. Burns figured in the teapot dome case in connection with shadowing of the jury in the Fall-Sinclair criminal conspiracy trial in 1927. He was convicted of complicity in contempt of court and was sentenced to fifteen days in jail. In June, 1927, however, the supreme court found him not guilty of an overt act and he was freed.

For the last five years, Burns has lived where he wrote detective and mystery stories based on his experiences.

CEREAL RELIEVED HIS CONSTIPATION

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brought
New Health

Every one who has suffered from constipation should read Mr. P. M. Fisher's letter:

"For many years I suffered from constipation and used, for relief, all kinds of laxatives. After a few days' treatment, I would only find my condition the same as before and at times worse.

"Some time ago I started to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly, once a day as directed. Since doing this, I have found that I do not need any other medicine to procure the desired result, and it keeps me in a very healthy condition."—Mr. P. M. Fisher, 352 Evergreen Place, Ridgewood, N. Y.

Constipation is caused by lack of two things in the diet: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN supplies both—and also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears out the wastes.

How much safer this is than risking pills and drugs—so often harmful. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in serious cases, with every meal. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved in this way, see your doctor.

Equally tasty as a cereal, or used in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

The church which disbanded fifty years ago was one of the pioneer churches of the county. It was founded in 1802. A number of the members of the church became affiliated with the Clifton church after it disbanded and many descendants of members of the old church reside in the county.

The Rev. Robert French, pastor of the Clifton church, will be in charge of the service Sunday and M. W. Collins, Cedarville, a member of the Seceders' Church, will relate incidents of the old church. David Bradford will give a history of the congregation of the church.

Miss Etta Bull, near Yellow Springs, is one of the oldest surviving members of the church who is now a member of the Clifton church. Her father, the late Amos Bull, was clerk of the sessions of the Seceders' Church for thirty years prior to its closing, and Miss Bull furnished a great deal of information to be used in the service Sunday. A chorus of grandchildren and great grandchildren of members of the old church, will sing.

ginia St. Baptist Church of Hopkinsville, Ky. The Rev. Perdue came to this city from this Kentucky pastorate and this was sent to him as a reminder from the church of his pastorate of over five years with them and as a token of their appreciation. Accompanying the box were several individual letters and money gifts.

The P. T. A. will present the "Rhythm Ace Trio" featuring Miss Rose Murphy at the piano in a benefit performance at East High School Friday evening.

FIRST REFORMED CHURCH

N. Detroit at Church
Rev. W. W. Foust, Pastor

The final disillusionment of the fruitless Christian is previously pathetic. When the "hay and stubble" with which he has been building is burned away, it is tragical to know that the poor denuded soul must stand empty handed before its Maker. Dorcas "was full of good works." And she who "hath done what she could," hath a memorial wherever the gospel is preached.

9:15 a. m.—Sunday School. Raymond Wolf, Supt. Prof. Hammerle will have charge of the opening service.

10:30 a. m. Worship and sermon. The pastor will speak of the place of "good works" in the Christian's life.

Prayer and Bible hour, Wednesday 7:30 p. m. "Christ at Prayer" is the subject for consideration. We join with the Trinity M. E. Church for the evening service. A pageant will be presented.

A Changed World!

He humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. Wherefore God also hath highly exalted him.
—Philippians 2:8,9

UNWORLDLY men, who live more for the next life than for this, are looked on as fools, even as was Christ. His life apparently was a dismal failure. He died, deserted even by His own apostles, on the shameful cross. Yet He succeeded better than any other of the children of Adam. Dying, He robbed death of its victory, the grave of its sting. Leaving the world, He changed the whole face of the world. By His obedience He became the greatest of conquerors. We, His followers, must help Him carry His cross, daily. So shall we share His victory.

Find a welcome in the "House by the Side of the Road"—one of our many Churches. Each extends a friendly invitation to you to come and worship.

To Fathers and Mothers

Regular attendance at the worship service of any church is profitable. Irregular attendance is like irregular sleeping and eating. After a time the worshiper becomes spiritually ill and drops back into old life from which they come.

Any of the churches of this city offer you a good program that will reveal God, his person and will to you. Attend some church.

If the church would have her face shine, she must go up into the mount and be alone with God. If she would have her courts of worship resound with eucharistic praises, she must open her eyes and see humanity lying lame at the temple gates, and heal it in the miraculous name of Jesus.

Wanted—Love!
The Story of an Unemployed Girl

CHAPTER 42

"DON'T FORGET you've got the next dance with me," the oily-haired fellow whispered familiarly against Lillian's ear—as if he were imparting an important secret, or making love.

But between the throbbing beats of the orchestra, Lillian could hear other sentences, too, sentences which kept her from pushing this repulsive creature from her . . . "Nothing today. . . . 'Sorry, we don't need any more help here.' . . . 'You haven't had any business training, Miss! . . . 'What do you think you could do around an office?' . . . 'Come back next week . . . maybe week after if you're around this way.' . . . 'This room will cost you sixty cents.' 'Only have a dollar and a half in the world.'"

While a ball, plastered with tiny mirrors, and which revolved and reflected polka dots of bright colors over the dancers, cast numerous shadows over Lillian a huge black shadow floated across her thoughts . . . the disturbing thought of her home, of her father, her mother . . . of the worry she had caused them by running away.

"Why was I such a fool . . . a fool!" the thought was hot, tearing, agonizing.

But she believed more strongly than ever that she could not, would not communicate with her family as proud, so smug, so secure in their ignorance of the other side of life and its victims.

She thought she was going to drop . . . the music had been so fast and the room suddenly was so warm. She was dizzy.

The music stopped, but only for a minute, then it started again. A new dance got underway.

The youth wrapped his arm about her again. She thought she could not force her feet to move.

"This is my dance, baby," he said. He thought she was not going to dance it with him.

"Can't . . ."

"Can't? Why can't you? There ain't no reason you can tell me and make me like it!"

Lillian reached out and caught at the bannister, leaning back against it with both hands holding on.

"Got it with some other guy?" the lean youth curled his lip.

Suddenly Lillian had an idea—

"How can I have it with you then—If I have it with some one else?" she asked.

Her eyes met his.

"How much will he give you?" he asked, running his hand down into his pocket.

Lillian didn't know just what to say. She had to be practical. She took a chance.

"A dollar—" she fibbed, fearing she had set the figure too high.

"Well, anyway, he said he would give me that," she added hurriedly.

"I'll give you a buck and a half. How 'bout that?"

Lillian was learning the tricks of the taxi-dancer. "Well, I don't know—"

"You don't know? Say—you got business sense, ain't you? Make up your mind, baby!"

He pushed a bill and some silver into her hand. Then he wired his arm about her and they started stepping to the music. Lillian's eyes fell on a sign stating: "No Objectionable Dancing Allowed."

It might have been fifty dollars from the way Eve's face lit up. Lillian was eager to be out of the place then. "It's going to close soon," she told Eve, as they went into the dressing room to get their wraps.

They waited and waited for Sadie, thinking she would decide to leave before the closing rush. But they could see Sadie dancing with a big blonde fellow, her small dark head only reaching about to his heart. She danced with her head resting against his huge body. Her eyes were closed as she glided past Lillian and Eve.

"Sadie," called Lillian, "come, let's go now. Almost time to close."

Sadie looked at her, and started to nod, it seemed, but the big man held her closer and said something in a low voice. Lillian and Eve only caught the persuasive tone.

He danced Sadie away from where the girls stood, and when he returned a little later Sadie leaned over and said: "You two know the way back, don't you? I'll be seeing you."

There was a triumphant, possessive gleam in the big man's eyes. He pressed Sadie's little head back against his chest and glided away. That was the last time Lillian and Eve ever saw Sadie.

STOCKHOLDERS TO DECIDE BANK'S FATE

Approval or disapproval of a proposed reorganization plan whereby it is hoped to reopen the Commercial and Savings Bank Co. and ultimately pay depositors 100 cents on the dollar, will be voiced, it is expected, at a second meeting of fifty-three stockholders of the closed institution Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Masonic Temple.

Strong sentiment in favor of reorganization prevailed at the first meeting of stockholders two weeks ago when the plan was outlined. Not all of the stockholders attended this meeting, although about 350 of the total of 500 shares of capital stock were represented.

Many Persist At Game Lured By Picture Fame

Many former stage and screen celebrities stay on in Hollywood and in motion picture work after their fame has died away.

Inevitably they are waiting for the breaks to give them a chance at a "comeback"—a chance to get their names in electric lights again.

Florence Lawrence and Florence Turner, two of the screen's first stars, enacted minor roles in "Sinners in the Sun" with Carole Lombard and Chester Morris. Miss Lawrence used to be famous as the "Biograph Girl" while Miss Turtrying to "hit the right combination" in Hollywood.

On the other hand Paul Kelly, who has twice before risen to prominence in the movies, once as a child prodigy and once as a juvenile, is being given a third opportunity by Carl Laemmle, Jr., of Universal. He signed a contract in New York and left at once for Universal City where Laemmle, in the belief he is ripe for success, has several unique roles in which to re-introduce him to motion pictures. For the last two years he has been successful on the legitimate stage.

The Screen Guild has been formed in Hollywood with the idea of endeavoring to accomplish for the screen what the Theater Guild has accomplished for the stage. M. C. Levee is president of the new organization. He is considering the possibility of borrowing John and Lionel Barrymore from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and then persuading Ethel Barrymore to join her brothers in a single production under the Guild banner which would launch the new organization. A worthy vehicle is being sought as the foundation stone for the new project. Levee, head of the Guild, is also president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Twenty Years '12- Ago -'32

F. Ridgley Torrence, New York City, arrived in Xenia last night, for a visit.

"Hoke" Smith, who has been ill for several days, is now able to walk about the house.

After pitching shutout ball for seven innings, Clarence Denser retired from the mound and the Alpha High baseball team progressed to a 6 to 1 victory over Xenia High School.

MAYFLOWER CUFF BUTTONS
RACINE, Wis.—Among the collection of family relics which fill a case in the home of Park Wooster, here, is a pair of cuff buttons brought to America on the Mayflower. The buttons are oblong, rose-colored stone, set in silver.

SALLY'S SALLIES

A musical comedy has to have some pretty good legs to get a "run" now-a-days.

Doris Kenyon
Returns to films after retiring following the death of her husband, Milton Sills.

ner was "The Vitaphone Girl" before the actual names of stars were used on films.

Ella Hall, once a popular leading woman; Clara Horton, a star a few years ago; Helene Chadwick, Alice Lake, Barbara Tennant, Viola Vale and Claire McDowell, all former screen favorites, continue to work in pictures. Wilfred Lucas, once a D. W. Griffith star and a leading player in "The Birth of a Nation", like Ed Coxen, Charley West, Melbourne McDowell, Forest West and Frances Ford, is awaiting the break that will give him another chance.

Grace Cunard, who is said to have amassed a fortune, cannot break away from the lure of the screen and accepts minor roles. Pat Somerset, London stage star a few years ago and Dan Crimmins and Rosa Gore, former vaudeville star team, have not succeeded in obtaining leading screen roles. Mira Ray, silent screen star of the Argentine, is casting about,

CADETS PRAISED AT INSPECTION HELD HERE ON THURSDAY

Annual federal inspection of the cadet band and battalion, comprising the R. O. T. C. unit at the O. S. and S. O. Home, was conducted Thursday by Major C. A. Bagby, officer in charge of R. O. T. C. affairs in the Fifth Corps Area, with headquarters at Fort Hayes, Columbus.

The inspection embraced a general administrative inspection of the military unit, records and property and training. Major Bagby expressed himself as favorably impressed and said that the showing of the cadet unit was highly satisfactory.

Commencing at 9:30 a. m., the inspection continued throughout the day.

Members of the band, first unit to be inspected, and H. E. Seall, band master, were complimented in appearance and performance. Attired in their natty new uniforms and assembled in their recently decorated band room, the band members played two numbers for the benefit of the instructor.

The cadet battalion, which was formed on the drill field under arms, also made a nice appearance during the inspection of the different companies.

At 1 o'clock in the afternoon a dress parade was held on the parade grounds on the front lawn, the first staged since early in February, due to the fact the weather has been unfavorable.

The Home R. O. T. C. unit was the first in this Corps Area to be inspected this year. Major Bagby went from here to Hamilton, O., to inspect the unit at Hamilton High School.

FIFTY OTHERS HURT; GOVERNOR APPOINTS PROBING COMMITTEE

faintest idea what caused the explosion" but discounted the theory that gas was responsible.

Firemen and others were still searching the tangled wreckage in the belief that the body of at least one more victim was buried in the ruin.

Robert Pfefferle, nephew of Judge B. L. Pfefferle of the municipal court, employed as a carpenter on the building, was still unaccounted for.

He was last seen entering the structure with Theodore Neb, superintendent of construction, a few minutes before the explosion.

Neb was among those seriously hurt. He is in Grant Hospital. John P. Schooley, state architect, was appointed a member of the temporary investigating committee by Carmel Thompson, Cleveland, chairman of the state office building commission, who was in Columbus at the time of the explosion. Other members of the committee are Henry, Chief Nice and Police Chief Fred P. Kundt.

WORKERS TELL STORY

Edward C. Dunfee, Bexley, bronze worker, gave some substantiation to the theory that gas caused the explosion.

Dunfee said that in boring a hole in the floor for a door hinge he and other workmen encountered an aperture beneath the floor of the first story.

Dunfee explained that he left the hole to complete another task and said he believes someone may have lighted a match above the aperture and that gas accumulated there was ignited.

The beautiful new building which was to house seventeen state departments within a month, so near was the work completed, was a sorry sight today.

BUILDING RUINED

The two lower floors and the basement were demolished. The front entrance was a shambles. Two gaping holes were blown in the west wall on the main floor, facing the Scioto River. Floors as high as the twelfth story, according to investigators, were warped.

Elevator shafts were knocked out of plumb. A marble esplanade at the southwest corner of the building still stood, half wrenched from its foundation.

Windows of Central High School, across the river, a distance of about 300 yards were broken. Curlously enough, no windows of the office building above the fourth floor were broken.

Several workmen, at tasks on the first floor, were blown through the holes in the walls and landed in the courtyard, some hurt badly, others superficially.

Responsibility for the necessary reconstruction work had not been placed today. Some sources believed the Struck Construction Company, of Cincinnati, which had the general contract, would have to bear the loss.

The Struck Co. gave a $3,000,000 bond which in belief of state Attorney General Bettman's office, can be drawn upon to cover the damage. The state, in contracting for the structure, believed the bond would guarantee proper delivery of the building. There was, in addition, a $400,000 insurance policy on the project.
